Will You Offer "Hospitality"?

The Appomattox Junior Woman's Club and the Home Demonstration Clubs have been asked by the Civil War Centennial Committee to look into the possibilities of Guest Housing in and around the village of Appomattox during the week end of April 9th and 10th. There will be many out of town visitors seeking accomodations and due to limited Motel facilities we feel it would be a great service to our community if we as individuals would offer free housing as a gesture of our southern hospitality.

Plans are being made to place centennial housing guest cards in an information center to be located at a desirable place easily accessable to tourist. A representative from one of the clubs in Centennial gown will be present at the information center to offer information and guest cards to those seeking accomodations. This card will be presented by guest upon arrival at residence.

If you have a room or rooms available and would like further information call one of the following committee members. Mrs. Joyce W. Morris — 352-2511; Miss Peggy Berger — 352-2365; Mrs. Peggy Lawson — 352-3691.

Future Foretold

In February 1932, CALVIN H. ROBINSON, charter member of the Lion's Club and former editor publisher of the Times-Virginian put in writing some predictions of changes which would take place in Appomattox by the time of the Centennial. Some of the developments which he foresaw were "a national park in all the land between the Colonial Trail and the Appomattox River stretchig a mile or more east of 306 . . . the old courthouse village restored . . . a 75-room tourist hotel . . . landing field . . . military units from Quantico . . . the re-enactment of the surrender carried on television and seen instantaneously all over the world". The column carrying this look into the future was discovered in an issue of the T-Va. of 1932 by Mrs. J. B. Terry.

Merchants Asked To Display Centennial Items During April

The Appomattox Civil War Centennial Committee appointed Robert Allen Sears, Luther Nash and Harry G. Lawson on a committee to contact the merchants and businessmen of Appomattox County and urge you to display exhibits in keeping with the Civil War Centenial. To this end, the committee would like to make the following recommendations:

1. That each merchant or businessman have some display which is in keeping with his business and at the same time in keeping with the Civil War Centenial Celebration. We would like for these displays to continue through the entire month of April. (Example: Appomattox Garment Company might possibly have a display of dresses manufactured or worn during that period)

2. That each merchant or businessman display the American Flag and the Confederate Flag, if so desired. The new 50 Star American Flag with the display assembly can be purchased at a modest price from the American Legion Post in Appomattox. They are available for immediate delivery and we suggest that you contact Larry Young or any member of the American Legion Post. We suggest that these flags be displayed during the whole month of April along with your other display.

3. That the businessmen and merchants make a special effort to clean up, repair and paint as much as possible so that we can make a favorable impression on the many visitors we expect in our County during this Civil War Centennial Celebration.

Town Council Urges Business To Close 9th

Dr. S. R. Lawson, mayor of Appomattox, speaking for the Town Council, has urged all "non-essential" business places to close for a half-day or full day on April 9.

Dr. Lawson says that this will afford local employees to be a part of the Centenial Commemoration. At the same time Dr. Lawson praised the efforts of the various "essential" services in the county — service stations, eating establishments, and others for their fine cooperation in preparing for an expected heavy influx of visitors from April 9-11.

Town employees have been busy 'cleaning up" and "fixing up' '—There are all new mercury vapor street lamps; trash cans are being painted and placed in convenient locations; and new street signs installed through the cooperation of the State High Way Department, plus many other intensive efforts to get ready for the Centenial.

A delicious meal was served on attractivly decorated tables served under the direction of Legionnaire L. A. Young and Mrs. Young. All of the ladies present were presented with rose buds. Mrs. W. E. Layne will be the recipient of an Easter corsage from the Flower and Gift Shop of Mrs. L. A. Young. Mrs. Layne was selected, inasmuch as her husband is the oldest veteran in attendance at the dinner. Commander Charles Thomas Moses, shown above, center introduced District Commander Lew Wilson, at far left. In turn Commander Wilson presented to the Post the "Johnny Matthews" Award for having exceded its membership quota for the year. Standing next to Wilson is Post Adjutant Clifford L. Harry with Mrs. C. T. Moses, Jr. Auxiliary president, and Joseph Holloway, Department Commander, shown at the far right. Commander Holloway made the principal anniversary address. Commander Holloway urged all Legionnaires and other veterans to write the President of the United States and express their concern over the "Great Society" plan which would close over thirty Veterans Hospitals and Domiciliary homes for Veterans, "thus denying them medical care to which they are entitled. We believe that the 'Great Society' has an obligation to these disabled war veterans."
